A good start for your day and a good goal for your week

A Word from Wayne
Lamunyon

Here is a good way to start your day and to face anything else that's happening in your life:

*"Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean
not on your own
understanding; in all
your ways acknowledge
Him and he will make your paths straight."
(Proverbs 3:5-6)*

Furthermore, other
people need to know
about this kind of faith.

So invite someone to share your faith this week ... and make it a habit every week of your life.

Faith on the move in a "family" context

Time is – not – on our side if we, as individuals and as a body of believers, do not make some needed changes.

But (and this is really good news) time – is – on our side if we are willing to do things differently.

You've probably heard – at least a dozen times – the cliché, "If you want what you've always had, keep doing what you've always done." (I don't know how many times I've heard those words.)

But counselors and consultants keep repeating this idea because people keep doing what they have always done and then – complaining that things are not getting better.

As followers of Christ and a church, we've got to take a fresh approach, first, on the level of the practice of our personal faith and, second, on the level of our shared faith as members of the family of God.

But before we are ready to make changes, we need to know what results we want. What – exactly – are we supposed to be doing, personally and together as followers of Christ?

I believe we are supposed to be becoming more like Jesus, by the grace and power of 'God and not in our own will-power.

We are to follow Jesus into a deeper prayer life, into a deeper understanding and devotion to the Word of God and into a greater practical love for each other and all people.

Time spent alone with God and with each other – with open hearts and open Bibles – has the potential of transforming our church and our community.

So let's pray: "Lord, we want what you want for us, and we will do what is needed, in your grace and power."

Come as you are. But don't stay as you are.
Be transformed by the renewing of your mind.
